The mission of Colorado Correctional Industries is three-fold.

- To reduce inmate idleness and the demand for general-funded programs by working as many inmates as possible in self-supporting and productive industries.
- To train inmates in meaningful skills, work ethics, and quality standards which better enable them to secure long-term employment after release from prison.
- To operate in a business-like manner so that enough revenues are realized each year to meet the ongoing capital equipment, working inventories and operating cash needs of the division.

"During a hike along the Continental Divide near Morgan's Gulch, we came upon a crew of inmates building the new hiking trail. The trail work was exceptionally well done. It was gratifying to have the chance to talk with trail crew bosses and the inmates, to thank them for their hard work at very high elevations. We very much appreciate the work completed and were honored to be the first group to achieve the pass on the new trail." - Linden Lane Partners, LLC/private citizen

Giving back. This year's annual report theme is one that is near and dear to my heart because it truly speaks to the nature of CCi's mission. Throughout the pages of this annual report, you'll discover the many ways we've worked over the past year to "give back" to the communities, the citizens, the victims ...and, yes...the inmates. It's our guiding philosophy that by building opportunity for our inmates, everyone is better served. The abilities learned while working for CCi instill the knowledge and work ethic needed for post-incarceration success. And it's working. Recidivism rates continue to decline with every hour that prisoners work in our programs.

GIVING BACK TO OUR ECONOMY

CCi's efforts continued to recapture jobs lost to China and other countries, making "Made in America" an even bigger reality in 2014. In addition, we continued to be one of the largest purchasers of Colorado raw materials and goods, stimulating our economy with over $8 million spent annually. And of course, one of our most direct financial benefits was saving taxpayers nearly $5,000 per inmate involved with CCi. The cumulative numbers are a staggering $9 million per year in savings.

GIVING BACK TO OUR PROGRAM

In 2014, CCi came a long way toward our goal of doubling our inmate employment by adding eight programs to our industries and expanding dozens of others. New partners, who share a mutual goal of production, performance and profitability, allowed us to add an additional 42 inmates to the CCi programs. These new collaborations addressed CCi's re-entry mission while inspiring our inmate population to learn new trades in ultrahigh pasteurization, partridge hatchery maintenance, granite counter top production, LED lighting fabrication, stone paver casting, antique vehicle restoration, tablet service and electronic recycling.

GIVING BACK TO THE WORLD

In 2011, CCi began providing modern correctional training to officials from around the globe. A collaborative effort between the U. S. Department of State, the Bureau of International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs (INL), CDOC and CCi, the International Corrections Management Training Center (ICMTC), located in Cañon City, Colorado, has trained 828 foreign officials to date. From Mexico and Central America to Africa, the Near East, South America, Asia and the Caribbean Basin, our efforts have helped to transform correctional facilities worldwide making them more safe, secure, humane and transparent.

The commitment of our staff and inmates to the philosophy of giving back is detailed throughout the following pages. As you will see, it's this dedication that makes us stronger and continues to help our success grow. Please enjoy our 2014 Annual Report, and thank you for your interest in and continued support of CCi.

Sincerely,

eve Smith

CCi's success inside and out!

Over 80% of former inmate workers with at least six months of CCi experience remain unincarcerated a year after release, a significantly better success rate than the national average of 61.6%.¹

Collaborative Success our division

As we near our fortieth anniversary, it's exciting to look at CCi's past accomplishments, but even more so to contemplate our plans for the future. As part of the Colorado Department of Corrections (CDOC), we've collaborated to achieve great success in our programs, for our inmates and for Colorado citizens.

Our Program — Self Funded. Self Reliant.

CCi receives no tax-payer support. Mandated to operate like any other traditional business, our success is completely dependent on the business savvy of our staff and the dedication of our inmate workforce. With over 1,800 inmates working in more than 80 programs in agriculture, services and manufacturing, CCi not only generates the revenues that allow us to fully fund the costs of operating our division, but saves Colorado taxpayers $5,000 per inmate employed or nearly $9 million a year in savings.

Safe. Secure. Smart.

Dozens of inmates compete for each position, with a GED requirement as well as interviews, recommendations, and more. That means that the inmate worked hard to get the job and he or she will work even harder to keep it. Motivation is high, and productivity encouraged. Discipline issues mean loss of employment and therefore occur far less with CCi workers than in the general population. By partnering with CDOC on every facet of our mission, we ensure a safe and secure environment is provided to inmates, staff and citizens of Colorado.

Working on the Inside—Succeeding on the Outside

The motto of our National Correctional Industries Association rings true throughout all correctional and industry facilities. By offering inmates the opportunity to learn meaningful skills, work ethic and responsibility prior to their release enhances their success post-incarceration. In fact, Colorado recidivism rates are improved by nearly 20% compared to inmates who were not involved in a CCi program. Our goal is to continue to increase the number of participants as well as continue to reduce the likelihood of recidivism.

top ten 2014 progress notes

PROGRAM GROWTH

1800+ inmates employed during 2014 with a goal of doubling the program within the next decade. In addition, 8 new industries were added for a total of 87 businesses now in CCi.

$5,000 saved per CCi-employed inmate equates to over $9,000,000 in annual taxpayer savings!

GETTING SMART!

144 inmates participated in college courses, collectively earning 556 credits from Pueblo Community College. Skills learned will prepare them for post-incarceration success.

GOING GREEN

From water reclamation to fertilizer, CCi conserved more in 2014 than ever before. Our environmental efforts, however, go far beyond reducing waste. We met or exceeded all state standards regarding toxins, waste and pollution, right down to the recycled stock used for this annual report.

CCI DIRECTOR AWARDED TOP HONOR AT NCIA

CCi Director, Steve Smith, was named the recipient the National Correctional Industries Association (NCIA) most prestigious award, the Rodli. Recognized for his sustained and outstanding contributions to the correctional industries field, Smith accepted the award during the 2014 NCIA Awards Banquet in New Orleans.

"I was very humbled by this nomination; recognition from my peers is the ultimate compliment and receiving this is like awarding Colorado's entire division... I share this award with them!"

BUYING COLORADO

CCi not only purveys goods, we procure them. Lots of them. In fact, we are one of Colorado's largest purchasers of local products, infusing our state's economy with over $8 million a year. From wood to steel, fiberglass to feed, we buy Colorado.

NEARLY 12,000 CONTINUING EDUCATION HOURS

We always knew our staff was a group of dedicated over-achievers, but 2014 was a banner year with 11,967 hours spent improving skills and learning new job-related expertise.

VICTIM RESTITUTION TOPS $1,000,000

A landmark year, CCi inmates have spent the last two decades contributing a significant portion of their wages to the Victim Restitution Fund. This year's donations put the total over the $1,000,000 mark...

an average of nearly $50,000 per year!

In addition to buying local, our manufacturing divisions are responsible for returning work to the USA from other countries like China. Made in America is good news for all staff

Every staff member employed within CCi is challenged each year, to further enhance their job-related expertise by attending a minimum of 40 hours of internal and external training. This training standard was surpassed, with a total of 11,967 training hours achieved for the year! Some of the specialized training attended include the following:

- Backflow Preventer Certification
- Colorado Cattlemen's Association (CCA) seminars
- Colorado Operations and Resource Engine (CORE)
- Energy Conservation
- Facility Management
- Financial Analysis
- Fire and Life Safety

College Courses and Inmate Apprenticeships

Our inmate population partook in college courses and apprenticeship programs this year, to further enhance their knowledge and success when released from prison. 144 male inmates participated in college courses from Pueblo Community College. These inmates successfully managed to work in a CCi program, and during their off time, participated, studied and passed their college courses, achieving a combined total of 556 college credits, and 193 individual certificates awarded!

Some inmates chose a different route, and participated in apprenticeship programs which will generate a certificate at the conclusion of their on-the-job training and work experience. This year, an overall average of 140 inmates logged 249,350 apprenticeship work hours, and achieved 45,085 instruction hours toward their completion certificates! These educational opportunities would have never been achieved, if it weren't for the structure and encouragement of CCi staff, and the partnership CCi shares with the CDOC Education department.

A recent Indiana recidivism study showed that "...the offender's level of formal education is an important element for reentry because it has a simultaneous effect on both post-release employment and recidivism."¹

"If CCi had not taken on the challenge of starting a goat dairy, and continued operating and providing excellent quality milk and service, our Dairy would not be in business today. There are no private dairies in Colorado which can provide us with the amount of excellent, quality milk, as provided by CCi." – Haystack Mountain Goat Dairy, maker of boutique artisanal goat cheese

partners in success

Our partnerships are a key component to the success and future of CCi. We'd like to thank the many agencies and corporations that have helped us meet a mutual goal of production, performance and profitability. We appreciate your kind words shown below as well as your valued support. Together we will continue to grow.

"Milberger Farms is very appreciative of CCi and the great people who make the program available to us. The availability of work crews who help us with surge operations at critical times in the season's cycle cannot be appreciated enough. It has literally meant the difference between success and failure. CCi has been invaluable in helping our family farm grow and succeed." – Milberger Farms

"For the last eight years, CCi has handled 100% of our farm's field labor. The ability to count on CCi has completely taken the labor burden away. Contracting with CCi has been a huge success for our farm." – Pisciotta Farms & Produce Marketing

"Over the last ten years, we have had a Joint Venture Agreement with CCi. We have had the good fortune to work closely with several of your personnel, and the work product resulting from our JVA is of a high quality. We believe our cells to be the best on the market, and CCi helps make that happen. We look forward to many more years of success." – Maximum Security Systems

"We have been servicing the correction's market since 1991 and have worked with many correctional organizations, but none with the desire and innovation that CCi has displayed. Our partnership has created the framework and allowed for these programs to be scalable and repeatable in other state correctional industries programs." – Union Supply Group "The staff administering the CCi programs are professional and willing to assist our company in meeting the demands of our toughest markets. Moreover, the workers who assemble our products have a high standard of accuracy, effort, and dependability. I have even experienced instances in which some of the inmates have helped innovate solutions to costly and difficult challenges that had nothing to do with their designated responsibilities. The balance of cost effectiveness and dependability can be difficult to achieve, yet is done so with our partnership with CCi." – Optimum Foods

"We find the professional way the CCi program is operated should be the model for Department of Corrections and other government agencies. CCi is very conscious of not competing with existing business in the private sector. Our company takes great pride in being involved with CCi. Thank you for the opportunity to grow our small business and be part of a successful business model." – Krauth Co.

"I would like to express how grateful we are for the fantastic relationship we have with CCi. Your agency, and most specifically the Canteen division, has been an integral part of Keefe's growth over the years. Your organization is an exemplary one, and we look forward to many more years of an excellent relationship." – Keefe Group

giving back on a global scale

In partnership with the U.S. Department of State and Bureau of International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs (INL), CCI operates a corrections training center that provides instruction to corrections officials from foreign countries.

Funded through an INL grant, the decommissioned Colorado Women's Correctional Facility in Cañon City was transformed into The International Corrections Management Training Center (ICMTC) and began classes in September 2011 with Mexican penitentiary officers. Since then, ICMTC has trained 828 officials from all over the world.

Staffed by Colorado CI employees and trainers experienced in all fields of modern corrections system management and operations, attendees are able to observe operations in a variety of correctional settings at all security levels. This first hand access to the wide array of correctional specialists working in these locations demonstrates best practices, which are reinforced through classroom instruction and practical application in the housing units located at the ICMTC.

Courses offered at the ICMTC include:

- Institution management
- Inmate classification
- Emergency management and response
- Strategic planning
- Data management
- Correctional industries
- Facilities maintenance
- Prison transportation
- Support services
- Security threat group management
- Inmate records management
- Human rights
- Probation, parole and transitional placement

The mission for INL's correctional programs is to assist nations seeking meaningful change, to develop and sustain their capacities to operate prisons and correctional systems that are safe, secure, humane and transparent, and conform to internationally accepted standards. The ICMTC is key in assisting INL with achieving this important goal.

According to one study, inmates who completed some college course work were 72 percent less likely to recidivate than those who had not been given an education while in prison.²

NATIONAL STATISTICS ON RECIDIVISM¹

Bureau of Justice Statistics studies have found high rates of recidivism among released prisoners. One study tracked 404,638 prisoners in 30 states after their release from prison in 2005.² The researchers found that:

Within three years of release, about two-thirds (67.8 percent) of released prisoners were rearrested.

Within five years of release, about three-quarters (76.6 percent) of released prisoners were rearrested.

Of those prisoners who were rearrested, more than half (56.7 percent) were arrested by the end of the first year.

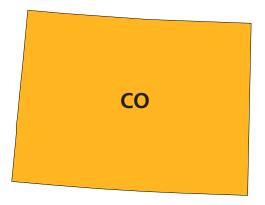

BEATING THE ODDS — COLORADO RESULTS

Employing a Better Solution

Participants in the CCi work programs are significantly less likely to commit a repeat offense and far more likely to find work upon release. Of course, it always seemed logical and we always believed in the program. Our recent recidivism study, however, offered up numbers that impressed even us — including nearly 20% reduction in recidivism for the men and women employed by CCi versus non-matched general population inmates.

National Average 38.4% recidivism within first year¹

leadership

our operations

ADMINISTRATION

From planning to personnel, legal and departmental affairs to public information and strategic goals, the division director's office sets the course for CCi's success. An open door to our varied partners and customers, the director is responsible for maintaining a productive relationship with Colorado DOC executive staff to effectively plan and execute business decisions that involve both parties.

Steve Smith, Colorado Correctional Industries Director since 2008, first joined CCi in 1985 as a construction supervisor. With more than 25 years of hands-on experience, Steve's knowledge, leadership skills, energy and expertise continue to move CCi forward. He is an enthusiastic person looking to open doors for inmates, staff and the organization. Steve believes the diversity of operations is one of the greatest advantages for CCi.

AGRIBUSINESS

Celebrating it's 140th Anniversary in 2014, CCi's agricultural roots began as part of the Colorado State Penitentiary inmate work program in 1874. Since then, CCi's agricultural focus has expanded to include diverse programs ranging from crops to white bison, water buffalo, big horn sheep, fish and more.

Jim Heaston, Agribusiness Division Manager, was appointed in 2008 and oversees nearly 20 ag-related programs. After joining CCi in 1987, Jim quickly became a key player in major expansions by more than tripling CCi's dairy cow milking herd and shifting from a twice a day operation to three times a day, seven days a week. He was also extremely instrumental in establishing the largest goat herd and dairy within the State of Colorado. Jim believes in looking for opportunities that will continue to move the agricultural division forward in today's world. FINANCE

Always more than crunching numbers, our finance division is responsible for processing CCi sales invoices, purchases, accounts payable and receivable, financial statements, inventories, and balanced books. In addition, our financial division must predict cash flow, oversee the budgets of 80+ cost centers and ensure end-of-year reconciliation.

James McCoy, CCi's Chief Financial Officer, began his career with the State in 1999 as a budget analyst with the Joint Budget Committee. Since 2009, James has analyzed and managed the diverse fiscal needs of our State agency. He enjoys the unique opportunity provided by working in a profit-and-loss business environment for the State of Colorado – something everyone within CCi takes very seriously.

MANUFACTURING

Highly diverse, CCi manufacturing programs provide products that serve the citizens of Colorado, governmental entities, higher education and CCi. Far more than the "makers of license plates," CCi's diverse products include bear-proof garbage receptacles found in our parks and flags found flying above city and state entities. In addition to leather products, stuffed animals, office furniture and fly rods, newer additions include granite countertops, televisions and LED lighting.

Andy Klinkerman, our

Manufacturing Division Manager, began his career with CCi in 1992 in our agricultural division. Serving in his current position since 2002, Andy believes strongly in developing new business and employing as many inmates as possible. His commitment to the diversity of our products and services allows us to provide a meaningful experience for inmates while meeting the equally diverse needs of our customers.

MARKETING & SALES

Like all entrepreneurial companies, CCi counts on competitive pricing, outstanding quality and exceptional service to win business. With an eye towards becoming the vendor of choice for all of our customers, we have evolved from word-of-mouth advertising to a full-scale showroom, online ordering and e-commerce.

Richard Curry joined CCi from the private sector in 2001 and was promoted to Sales and Marketing Division Manager in 2002. He enjoys the dynamic business environment of CCi and the progressive correctional operations in Colorado. Richard embraces the challenge of working for an industry that receives no taxpayer assistance and yet provides large array of skills and opportunities for inmates' success.

Operating costs for CCi are reduced through the efficient utilization of our own internal staff and inmates for support services. Their skills and dedication answer the needs of customer service, warehousing, transportation, delivery, installation, and much more. Our service division also serves our customers, our State, and CDOC inmates.

Jack Laughlin, CCi Service Division Manager since 2001, oversees our largest percentage of programs including transportation, the CCi International Correctional Management Training Center, fleet services and the statewide inmate firefighting programs. Jack enjoys the variety of business opportunities and the challenges encountered in a correctional industry environment.

- Reduce reliance on taxpayer provided funds for inmate recreational, educational and social benefit expenditures.

Canteen, Vending Machine &

Like all CCi businesses, the Canteen program is a self-sustaining entity, receiving no taxpayer support. Profits from retail and vending machine sales, family gift packs and Colorado Inmate Phone System (CIPS) commissions help to fund inmate educational, recreational and social activities as well as supplementing other direct inmate needs.

Inmates housed within 20 CDOC locations and 4 private facilities benefit from Canteen services. Inmates with adequate funds can select from a wide range of retail products including candy and snacks, name brand hygiene and style products, and more. Orders are completed through two distribution centers; one in Denver and the other located in Cañon City. More than 60,000 monthly orders are processed by 85 male and female inmates employed within the operations. Supporting CCi's mission, the marketable skills and work ethic required for these positions transfer well to life after prison. In addition Canteen workers are encouraged to participate in college certificate classes, to further enhance their success upon release from incarceration.

A future of giving back

CCi continues to seek new endeavors that expand our programs, employ more inmates, and generate profits that ensure our future success. We encourage every participant to contribute in a manner that supports our mission.

It's a fact that fewer inmates return to crime after having worked in CCi's programs. Teaching marketable skills and instilling a work ethic has proven successful in transitioning inmates into productive citizens upon reentry. Education furthers our efforts and we're proud to have hundreds of college graduates within our inmate population each year.

Giving back to victims. Citizens. Colorado. It's a worthy goal. And one that CCi is steadfastly committed to now.

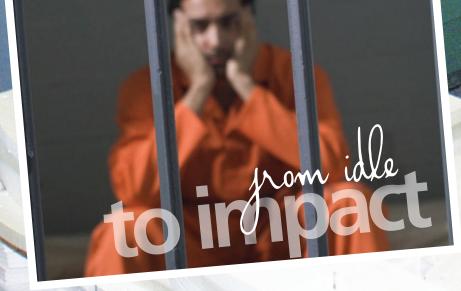

Our Stone Paver Castings Program is just one of many new CCi industries added in 2014.

some of our new endeavors

- Ultra-high pasteurization (UHP): Eliminates the need to freeze water buffalo milk during transport to our joint venture partner. New jobs: + Five inmates
- Stone Paver Castings: Unused waste from our newly created granite countertop industry will be cut into 6-10" tiles or paving stones for home use.
 New jobs: + Five inmates
- Tablets: CCi recently implemented an inmate tablet commodity program. With 2,000 tablets sold through the canteen in just six months, plans to burn accessory SD cards are underway. New jobs: + Five inmates
- LED Bulbs: We'll "shed new light" by replacing existing bulbs and fluorescents with superior, energyefficient LED bulbs. New jobs: + Ten inmates
- Electronic Recycling: Working with a Joint Venture Partner, CCi recycles commercial-scale computers and laptops, meeting OSHA and EPA requirements. New jobs: + Five inmates

Over $1 million in victim restitution has been contributed by inmates in the last two decades.
